

Index

- Accessibility, 75
- Acquisition (A), 116–117, 119
 - methods of CEK, 119–121
- Acquisition-capture (AC), 121–122
- Adaptive bi-square spatial kernel function, 254
- Advertising firms, 235
- Affect Grid, 92
- Affective components of customer experience, 90–91
 - advantages and limitations of customer experience measures, 93–94
 - cardiovascular measures, 97
 - electrodermal activity, 96–97
 - electromyography, 97
 - ESM, 95
 - event-related potentials, 98
 - functional magnetic resonance imaging, 98–99
 - measuring, 91–99
 - psychophysiological measures, 96
 - pupillometry, 97–98
 - self-reported scales, 92–95
 - social media sentiment analysis, 95–96
- American Alliance of Museums, 198
- Antecedents, 214–216
 - comprehension, 216
 - of customer experience and customer satisfaction, 250–251
 - involvement, 214–215
 - sharing, 215–216
- Anthropology, 6
- Art(s)
 - antecedents, 214–216
 - consequences, 211–214
 - construct, 207–211
 - customer engagement in, 200–202
 - engagement, 199–202, 207, 211
 - market, 200–201
- Artificial intelligence, 149
- Augmented reality (AR), 148
- Autohermeneutic phenomenology, 51,
 - 53, 55–56, 281–282
 - a guiding framework for autohermeneutic phenomenological studies, 58
 - approach, 50–52
 - center self as subject and object of observation, 56
 - embrace eclectic techniques, 57
 - framework development, 56–58
 - guidelines for capturing experience extremities, 56–58
 - hermeneutic phenomenology, 53–55
 - move along hermeneutic circle, 57
 - ordinary value, 56
 - putting “I” in equation, 55–56
 - safeguard depth of think piece, 57–58
 - setting stage, 52–53
 - theoretical underpinnings, 52–56
- Average variance extracted (AVE), 273
- Behavioral intention, 77
 - behavioral intentions-oriented customer experience, 35–39
- Beneficiary, 52
- Beverage tourism, 178–179
- Bibliographic coupling, 24–25, 27, 31, 36, 38–39
 - behavioral intentions-oriented customer experience, 35–39
 - customer experience as driver of well-being, 34

- customer experience in physical environment, 32–33
- emotional value in consumption experience, 35
- future research questions, 39–42
- technology-oriented customer experience, 33–34
- total customer experience, 39
- Bibliometric analysis, 24–25
- Bibliometric analysis techniques, 281–282
- Brand
 - attachment, 272
 - brand-related antecedents, 246
 - brand-related outcomes, 246
- Business
 - business-oriented issues, 227–228
 - perspective, 133–134
- Capture (C), 116–117, 119
- Capturing experience, 202
- Cardiovascular measures, 93–94, 97
- CEK-Process competence, 109
- CEKM competence (CEKMC), 115
- “Certified knowledge”, 27
- Citation analysis, 24–25, 27–28
- Cloud-based CRM, 148
- Cluster analysis, 27
- Co-creation, 6, 9, 270, 272
- Co-occurrence analysis, 24–25, 27
- Co-occurrence by all keywords, 29–30, 33
- Competitive advantage, 134
- Complaints reviews, 111
- Complete ethnography approach, 281–282
- Comprehension, 216
- Confidence interval (CI), 274
- Consensus map, 211
 - unfamiliar and familiar young adults, 212–213
- Consequences, 211–214
- Construct, 207–211
- Constructive research approach (CRA), 137
- “Consume” transcends, 4–5
- Consumer, 5
- Consumer behavior theory, 3–4
 - customer experience and consumer value, 11–15
 - from customer to consumer value, 9–11
 - literature review, 4–11
 - roots of consumption experience, 4–9
- Consumer culture theory, 5
- Consumer experience (CX), 228
- Consumer value (CV), 4
 - consumption experience and consumer value in tourism research, 12–15
 - customer experience and, 11–15
 - customer to, 9–11
 - as framework analysis to customer experience, 11
- Consumption experience, 3–4, 7–9
 - and consumer value, 11–15
 - perspectives, 6–7
 - and tourism field, 9
- Consumption narrations, 14–15
- Contemporary approach of film experience, 232–235
- Contemporary art, 198, 211
 - value of, 199–200
- Contemporary marketing logics, 52
- Content analysis, 117–119
- Context-based marketing, 11
- Core competencies, 134–136
- Corrected Akaike Information Criterion score (AICc), 254
- Covariance-based SEM (CB-SEM), 273
- COVID-19 pandemic, 198, 267–268
- Cross-cultural experiences, 231
- Cultural probe, 164–165
- Cultural tourism, 198
 - arts engagement, 207, 211, 214
 - contemporary art, 198–200
 - customer engagement in arts, 200–202
 - findings, 207–216
 - methods, 202–207

- Culture motivation, 74
- Current Mood Questionnaire (CMQ), 92
- Customer
- to consumer value, 9–11
 - customer-centered accounting, 140
 - customer-centered approach, 139
 - customer-related antecedents, 248
 - customer-related outcomes, 246
 - perspective, 9
 - resource integration, 150
 - satisfaction, 246
- Customer co-creation (CC), 268, 283
- as antecedent of CX, 270
- Customer engagement (CE), 198–199, 268, 283
- as antecedent of CX, 270
 - in arts, 200–202
- Customer experience (CX), 66, 89–90, 108, 198, 246, 267–270, 281
- analysis and results, 273–274
 - antecedents of customer experience and customer satisfaction, 250–251
 - articles and citation trends, 27–28
 - bibliographic coupling, 31–39
 - CC as antecedent of, 270
 - CE as antecedent of, 270
 - co-occurrence by all keywords, 29–30
 - conceptualization of, 24
 - customer experience-oriented business models, 24
 - CX-centered nomological network, 270
 - data collection and research design, 272
 - existing reviews and conceptualizations, 25
 - impact on CL, 271
 - impact on EA, 270–271
 - implications, 274–276
 - limitations and future research, 276
 - management, 281
 - measurement model evaluation, 273
 - mediating role of, 271
 - mediation analysis, 274
 - method, 25, 27, 272
 - path analysis, 273–274
 - practical and social implications, 42–43
 - practical implications, 275–276
 - relevance of customer satisfaction in customer experience studies, 248–249
 - relevance of online reviews in customer experience studies, 249–250
 - results, 27–42
 - review and conceptual studies on, 26
 - and spatial analysis, 252–253
 - structural model assessment, 273
 - theoretical background and hypotheses development, 269–271
 - theoretical contributions, 42
 - theoretical implications, 274–275
 - top contributing journals and studies, 28–29
 - in tourism, 91–92
 - in tourism and hospitality, 42
 - variables and measurement, 272
- Customer experiential knowledge, 113
- Customer experiential knowledge management (CEKM), 108, 132–133, 135, 281–284
- operationalization of, 109
- Customer experiential knowledge-process competence (CEK-PC), 108, 282–284
- acquisition methods of CEK, 119–121
 - components definitions, 116–117
 - conceptualization, 114–115
 - content analysis, 117–119
 - customer experiential knowledge, 113
 - customer knowledge management process, 112–113
 - definition, 115

- ethnography approach studying
 - customer experience, 111–112
- literature review, 109–113
- methodological choices and
 - qualitative items generation of CEK-PC, 117
- phenomenological understanding of
 - tacit knowledge, 110–111
- Q-Sort technique, 121–122
- renewing thought on definition of
 - customer experience, 114–115
- service experience concept, 110
- Customer inclusion in process, 139–140
- Customer introspection (CI approach), 4, 13, 281–282
- Customer Journey Mapping (CJM), 163–164
- Customer journeys, 53
- Customer knowledge (CK), 112
 - management process, 112–113
- Customer loyalty (CL), 268, 283
 - CX's impact on, 271
- Customer satisfaction through spatial
 - analysis
 - antecedents of customer experience and customer satisfaction, 250–251
 - customer experience and spatial analysis, 252–253
 - literature review, 248–253
 - methodology, 253–254
 - relevance of customer satisfaction in customer experience studies, 248–249
 - relevance of online reviews in customer experience studies, 249–250
 - research framework, variables, and model specification, 253–254
 - results, 254–257
- Customer-driven restaurant analysis (CDRA), 139
- “Customer-provider”, 14–15
- Cyber communities, 68
- Cyber tourism experience, 74
- Cyber-customer experience (CCX), 66, 69, 72
 - cyber-customer experience and flow theory, 69–70
 - dimensions of, 66–67
- Cybertourist experiences, 282
- Data collection method, 272
- Descriptive richness, 57–58
- Destination
 - expectations, 231
 - promotion, 227–228, 230
 - providers, 151
- Destination Emotions Scale, 92–94
- Diary study, 164–165
- Differential Emotions Scale (DES), 92
- Digital tourism, 149
- Digital tourist experience, 150
- Digitalization, 148
- Dimensional model of emotions, 91
- Discrete emotions model, 91
- Discriminant validity (DV), 273
- Disney movies, 234–235
- Eclectic techniques, 51
- Ecotourism, 175–176
- Effectiveness, 67
- Electrodermal activity (EDA), 93–94, 96–97
- Electroencephalography (EEG), 165–166
- Electromyography (EMG), 97, 165–166
- Electronic word-of-mouth (eWOM), 33
- Emotional attachment (EA), 268, 283
 - CX's impact on, 270–271
- “Emotional reaction and expectation”, 76
- Emotional value in consumption
 - experience, 35
- Emotions, 148–150
 - measurement, 90–91
- Emotions Profile Index (EPI), 92
- Enterprise architects, 24

- Entertainment, 74–75
- Esthetic criteria, 7
- Ethnography approach studying
customer experience,
111–112
- Ethnology, 6
- Event-related potentials (ERPs),
93–94, 98
- Ex situ* postexperience, 111–112
- Ex-situ* post-experience, 13–14
- Expectation Confirmation Theory, 251
- Expectation disconfirmation theory
(EDT), 250
- Experience, 50, 52, 228
economy, 24
and resource utilization, 133
revisiting concept of, 5–6
satisfaction, 225
- Experience accounting approach (EA), 136, 281–283
business perspective, 133–134 challenges, 136–137
conceptualization, 137–139
directions for future research, 142 experiences and resource utilization, 133 inclusion of customer in process,
139–140
literature review, 133–137
readjust offerings, 140–141 resource-based view and core competencies,
134–136
theoretical and practical advancements within field,
137–139
- Experience Sampling Method (ESM),
90, 93–95
- Experiential quality, 147–148
- Experimental design, 95
- Externalization methods, 120
- Extrinsic value, 10
- Eye-tracking (ET), 165–166
- Facial recognition, 165–166
- Feelings, 3–4
- Film tourism. See also Tea tourism, 224, 227
conceptualizations, 229–232
experiences, 228–229
literature review, 224–235
storytelling, 232–235
tourism experiences, 227–228
- Film tourist destinations, 234–235
- Film-induced tourism, 225–226
- Firm
knowledge assets, 135
perspective, 9
- Flow theory, cyber-customer experience and, 69–70
- Food tourism, 178–179
- “Forum Trabzon Tea Festival”, 188
- 4-dimensional model,
269–270
- Foursquare website, 173–174
- Fragmented society, 4–5
- Free-format narrative recording, 57
- Functional magnetic resonance imaging (fMRI), 93–94,
98–99
- Galvanic skin response (GSR),
165–166
- Game of Thrones*, 234–235
- Gastronomy-based tea tours, 173–174
- Geographic information system (GIS), 247
- Geographically Weighted Regression
(GWR), 247–248, 255
- Geolocation, 252
- Global health emergency, 267–268
- Global pandemic situation, 25
- Google Keyword Planner, 74
- Guided Introspection, 13
- Happy marriage in conceptualization and methodology, 11–15
- Harry Potter*, 234–235
- Head-mounted devices (HMD),
159–162
- Heart rate variability, 165–166
- Hedonic answers, 7

- “Hermeneutic circle”, 51
 Hermeneutic phenomenology, 53–55
 Hermeneutics, 50–51
 Heuristic questioning, 57–58
 Hierarchical Value Maps (HVM),
 207–208, 210
 Holbrook typology, 12
 Holbrook’s typology, 10–11
Homo cogitans, 7
Homo sensans, 7
 Horizontal content analyses, 121
 Hospitality, 132
 customer experience in, 42, 246
 Hotel industry, 247
 Human sense stimulation, 149–150
 Humanics, 149
- Immersive technology, 148–149
In situ experience, 55, 109, 111–112
In situ self-interviews, 57
 In-depth analysis, 246
 In-depth interview, 200, 203–206
In-situ consumption experience, 13–14
 Inceptual epiphany, 57–58
 Inclusion of customer in process,
 139–140
 Individuals approach contemporary artworks, 199
 “Informant controlled reflexivity”,
 13–14
 Information and communication technologies, 67
 Innovative customer-centered
 management system,
 132–133
 Integration (INT), 116–117, 119
 Intellectual structures, 27
 Internal due diligence process, 135
*International Journal of Contemporary Hospitality Management
 (IJCHM)*, 28–29
*International Journal of Hospitality
 Management (IJHM)*,
 28–29
 “Internet experience”, 69
 Interpretive autoethnography, 51
 Interpretive consumer research (ICR),
 13
 Interpretive depth, 57–58
 Interpretive research methodology, 66
Intra-interaction CE, 275
 Intra-variable approach, 12
 Intrinsic value, 10
 Introspective techniques, 51
 Introspective-praxis approach, 51
 Involvement, 214–215
- “Journey metaphor”, 52
 Journey(s), 50
 mapping techniques, 53
 pre-core-post experience in,
 51–52
- Key Concepts in Tourism Studies*,
 225–226
- Knowledge
 management, 112–113
 views through service-dominant logic paradigm, 110
 Kozinets’ framework, 73
- “Logos”, 54
Lord of the Rings, 234–235
 Loyalty, 269, 271
- Marketing tea tourism, 176
Martian, The, 234–235
 Mechanics, 149
 Media, 224
 Mediation analysis, 274
 Memorable digital tourism experience
 (MDTE), 148–150, 283 emotions gestures and expressions captured by technological and digital devices,
 160–161
 framework of, 157
 future of, 158–166
 prior literature on actors’
 interaction in tourism ecosystem, 152–156
 methodological insights, 162–166

- practical insights, 159–162
- service-dominant logic in tourism, 150–158
- Memorable experience components of tourists, 173–174
- Memorable tourism experiences (MTE), 147–148
 - tea tourism and, 177–180
- Meta-analysis, 24–25
- Metadata, 24–25
- Microsoft Excel, 27
- Millennials, 198–199
- Mixed method, 27
- Mixed reality (MR), 148
- Modern communication technologies, 75
- Modern hospitality firms, 132
- Mortal Kombat*, 234–235
- Motivation, 74
- Mountain tourism, 175–176
- Movie-induced tourism, 225–226
- Multidata techniques, 112
- Multidimensional approaches, 10
- Multidimensionality of value, 12
- Multiple Affect Adjective Check List, 92
- Multisensory dimensions, 148–149
- Museums, 198
- Negative emotions in MDTE, 159–162
- Netnography, 66–68, 281–282
 - cyber-customer experience and user-generated content through, 69–72
 - data analysis, 73–74
 - data collection, 73
 - defining review objective, 72–73
 - feedback of visitors of online attractions, 87
 - guidelines, 68–69
 - literature review, 67–72
 - methodology, 72–73
 - results, 74–77
 - selection process resulted in attractions, 86
- Non-self-reported emotions
 - measurements, 165–166
- Notting Hill*, 232
- O_Quality, 253
- Objective quality, 251, 256
- On-site destination experiences, 231–232
- On-site experience, 90
- On-site film tourist's experiences, 230
- Online cultures and communities, 67
- “Online experience”, 69
- “Online purchase experience”, 69
- Online review, 247
 - in customer experience studies, 249–250
 - rating, 253
- “Online shopping experience”, 69
- Online visitors, 73–74, 76
- Overtourism, 11
- Pandemic-based tourism, 11
- Partial least squares structural equation modeling (PLS-SEM), 273
- Participant observation technique, 180–181
- Personas, 235
- Phenomenological understanding of tacit knowledge, 110–111
- Phenomenological views through service-dominant logic paradigm, 110
- Phenomenology, 50–51, 54
 - interview, 15
- “Phenomenon”, 54
- Philanthropic marketing, 200–201
- Physical environment, customer experience in, 32–33
- Picture-based emotion recognition, 165–166
- Placebo effect, 250
- Plateau tourism, 175–176
- Pleasure, Arousal, and Dominance scales (PAD scales), 92
- Positive and Negative Affect Schedule (PANAS), 92

- Positive emotions, 159
- Positive–negative emotion, 148–149
- Postmodern consumer, 5
- Postmodern tourism experience
 - development, 233
- Postmodernism, 5
- Postvisit experience, 90
- Pre-COVID-19, Spanish hotel industry
 - in, 253
- Previsit experience, 90
- Price, 250, 253
- Product differentiation distance
 - measure, 253
- Product Emotion Measurement Instrument (PrEMO), 92
- Psychophysiological measures, 93–94, 96
- Psychophysiological methods, 90, 281–282
- Pupillometry, 93–94, 97–98

- Q-Sort technique, 121–122
- Qualitative method, 27
- Qualitative research techniques, 180, 200, 203
- Quantitative method, 27

- Reality, 231
- “Reflective objectivization”, 54
- Research design method, 272
- Research priorities, 274–275
- Resource utilization, 133
- Resourced-based view (RBV), 134, 136, 283
- Rize province, 176

- S_Quality, 253
- Safety, 75
- Satisfaction, 253
- “Satisfaction and behavior intentions”, 77
- Self-Assessment Manikin approach, 92
- Self-Monitoring, Analysis and Reporting Technology (smart), 66
- Self-oriented value, 10
- Self-report biases, 89–90
- Self-report methods, 94
- Self-reported scales, 89–90, 92, 95
- Semistructured interview technique, 173–174, 180–181
- Sentiment analysis, 95–96
- Service blueprint, 164
- Service dominant (S-D), 268–269
- Service experience concept, 110
- Service provider-related antecedents, 248
- Service-Dominant Logic (S-DL), 13–14, 110, 149–150
 - exemplifications of, 151
 - S-D logic-led CE, 271
 - in tourism, 150–158
- Sharing (S), 116–117, 119, 215–216
- Small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs), 132
- Social anthropology, 6
- Social interaction, 111–112
- Social media, 11, 268
 - sentiment analysis, 90, 93–96
- Social-local-mobile apps (SoLoMo apps), 148
- Sound of Music, The*, 232
- Spanish hotel industry in pre-COVID-19, 253
- Spatial analysis, 247–248, 281–282
 - customer experience and, 252–253
- Standardized root mean squared residual (SRMR), 273
- “Story and character” based storytelling, 236
- Storytelling, 15, 232, 235
- Subjective personal introspection, 51
- Subjective quality, 246, 251, 256
- Symbolic meanings, 7
- Systematic literature review, 24–25

- Tacit knowledge
 - management, 108
 - phenomenological understanding of, 110–111

- Tea tourism. See also Film tourism, 173–174
 applications in world, 175–176
 direct quotations, codes and themes, 183–186
 information about tea, 186
 interaction, 188
 method, 180–181
 profile of interview respondents, 182
 purpose and importance of study, 180
 results, 181
 taste of tea, 188
 tea and, 174–175
 tea tourism and memorable tourist experience, 177–180
 tea-related environments, 186–187
- Technology-oriented customer experience, 33–34
- Temporality, 55
- Three-phase business model, 137–138
- Top destination for seawater-based thalasso-therapy, 108–109
- Total customer experience, 39
- Tourism, 11, 148, 224, 228 businesses, 224
 consumption experience and consumer value in tourism research, 12–15 customer experience and tourism field, 9
 customer experience in, 42, 91–92, 246
 digitalization in, 148 driven, 74
 experiences, 227–228
 industry, 268–269
 long-established industry of, 66 management literature, 198 managers, 132
 marketing, 148–149 products, 90–91
 research, 76
 service-dominant logic in, 150–158 services, 228
 social media, 119–120
 tourism-derived CE impact on CX, 268
 types, 175–176
- Tourist, 180
 destination marketing, 199
 experience, 228
 managing, 229–230
 onsite experience, 151
 participating in tea tourism, 188
- Trans*-interaction CX, 275
 “Transcend” phenomena, 54
- Transcendental phenomenology, 54
- Transformative value research, 11
- Travel motivation, 74
- Treatment (T), 116–117, 119
- TripAdvisor, 71–72, 119–120, 173–174
- Turkey, tea tourism in applications in world, 175–176
 direct quotations, codes and themes, 183–186
 information about tea, 186
 interaction, 188
 method, 180–181
 profile of interview respondents, 182
 purpose and importance of study, 180
 results, 181
 taste of tea, 188
 tea and, 174–175
 tea tourism and memorable tourist experience, 177–180
 tea-related environments, 186–187
- Two-dimension engagement, 207–211
- Typology, 10
- Uniform System of Accounts for Restaurants (USAR), 137–138
- User-generated content (UGC), 70–71 through netnography, 70–72
- Value creation model (VCM), 139
- Value-cognitive nature, 10
- Value-research, 9
- Virtual communities, 268

- Virtual educational attractions, 148
- “Virtual ethnography”, 67
- Virtual reality (VR), 148
- “Virtual tour”, 74
- Voice recognition, 165–166
- VOSviewer software, 24–25

- Wearable devices, 149
- Web of Science (WoS), 24–25, 282
- “Website brand experience”, 69
- Well-being, customer experience as driver of, 34

- World Economic Forum (WEF), 267–268
- World Health Organization (WHO), 267–268

- Young cultural consumers, 200
- Young individuals, 199
- Young people consume arts, 200

- Zaltman Metaphor Elicitation Technique (Z-Met), 200, 203, 281–283