ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Dr Cristina de Mello e Souza Wildermuth is an Associate Professor and the Director of the Bachelor of Science in Organizational Leadership at Barry University. She teaches leadership, ethics, diversity, and human resource development courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Dr Wildermuth is a passionate professor, researcher, and leadership development consultant who has engaged audiences and students for over 20 years. She immigrated to the United States in 1992 from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, and has traveled extensively, facilitating leadership, diversity, and inclusion programs in Latin America and Europe.

Dr Wildermuth's main research areas include leadership development and education, ethics, and international/intercultural relations. She has published in peer-reviewed journals like the Journal of Business Ethics, the Journal of Leadership Education, and the Journal of Psychological Issues in Organizational Culture, as well as a book on diversity training published by the Association for Talent Development.

Dr Wildermuth holds a Master's in Career Technology Education with a concentration in Training and Development and a Doctorate in Leadership Studies from Bowling Green State University, with a dissertation on employee engagement and personality. She is the co-chair of Linked:HR, a one million-plus LinkedIn group for HR professionals, and a member of the International Leadership Association's Leadership Academy facilitation team.

Dr Wildermuth lives in West Melbourne, Florida, with her husband Mel and furry family members Friskey, Bambi, and Buffy. She enjoys exploring new beaches, taking impromptu trips to Walt Disney World in Orlando, and learning to paint with Bob Ross.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

First, I am grateful to my family – my husband Mel and my daughter Maggie – for their constant support and encouragement to keep writing even when I thought the book would never be finished. My husband Mel “held the fort” at home as I went from work to writing and back to work with no time for anything else. Mel, thank you.

I’d also like to thank the Emerald team, particularly Fiona Allison, for her guidance and advice and Dr Michael Urick for inviting me to join this outstanding group of authors and scholars.

Finally, I would like to recognize a fantastic group of people from the International Leadership Association’s Leadership Education Academy: Dennis Ray, Sevinj Iskandarova, Jason Headrick, Nidhi Yadav, Sean Jordan, Keyhan Shamsi Yousefi, and Jonathan Lee. You helped me find joy in my work when I needed it the most!
