

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Muhammad Hassan Raza is an Associate Professor at Missouri State University, United States. He is a Theorist and a Methodologist. He is the author of Two Souls One Reflection. He has been teaching at the undergraduate level and the graduate level for almost a decade. He has experience of teaching in three large-scale public universities in the United States. He teaches courses on family development, couple relationships, diversity in early childhood education, research methods, statistics, service-learning, theories of family science and human development. He also writes poetry and songs in English and Urdu. In addition to writing poetry and songs, he writes drama and films. After work, he likes to spend time with his family, which includes his spouse and three young children. He also likes to travel and visit new places to explore and enjoy.