

INDEX

This volume refers to films and TV series, many of which were adapted from literary sources, and some of which have been adapted more than once. Many of these adaptations and sources share titles. To allow the reader to distinguish the various adaptations from one another and from the source material, when adaptation(s) and source are discussed together, the index gives a single combined entry; when adaptation(s) and source are discussed separately, the index gives two entries. Further, many characters appear in multiple forms and texts, and thus appear in the index in their own right.
