ABOUT THE EDITORS

Israel Katz is an Associate Professor at the Departments of Psychology and Sociology (where he is also the Director of Organizational Studies) in the Hebrew University in Jerusalem. He is also a Founder and the Head of Zofnat – the Institute of Research, Development and Organizational Consulting. He serves as the Chief Editor of Organizational Analysis (a professional publication in Hebrew) and has published several books and numerous articles, mostly in Hebrew, on the topic of organizational leadership.

Galit Eilam-Shamir holds a Ph.D. in Business Administration from the Hebrew University and a Master's degree in Organizational Behavior from Tel Aviv University. She is a Senior Lecturer and heads the MBA program in Organizational Management Studies at the Faculty of Business Administration at Ono Academic College. Her career straddles academic interests and practical work. In her studies and publications, she focuses on the subject of managing and leading change and on leadership, more particularly authentic leadership. Part of her research work in this field was conducted in tandem with her late spouse, Prof. Boas Shamir. Their joint investigations in this area have shed light on the concept of authentic leadership, while also challenging the concept itself. They suggested that authentic leaders act according to their self-perception as shaped by their life story and evolving within it. Their work also addressed a number of practical implications of developing authentic leadership. Dr. Eilam-Shamir boasts extensive experience in organizational consulting and personal consulting to managers in business and public organizations. Her consulting activity centers on providing comprehensive professional guidance to organizations undergoing change processes. Another aspect of her consulting activity involves work with senior executives on developing personal leadership, based on their personal and professional life stories.

Ronit Kark is an Associate Professor of Leadership and Organizational Psychology in the Department of Psychology at Bar-Ilan University (BIU). She was the Founder and the Director of the Graduate Gender Program “Gender in the Field: Linking Feminist Theory and Practice,” at BIU. She is also an affiliated Scholar at the Center for Gender in Organizations at Simmons College, Boston, MA. She received her Ph.D. from the Hebrew University, Jerusalem, and completed her postdoctoral studies at the University of Michigan. Her research interests include leadership and followership, positive relationships in organizations, identity and identification processes, gender and leadership, and leading for creativity. Her work was published in leading journals including: AMR, AMA, LQ, JOOP, JOB, Organization, AMLE, and JAP. Prof. Kark is an Associate Editor at the LQ and also served on the Editorial Boards of the AMJ, AMR, AMD, Frontiers in Psychology, and IJMR. She was awarded the Best Paper Prizes by the International Leadership Association (ILA, 2005), the International Academy of Management and Business (IAMB, 2012), and the Academy of Management Annals (AMA, 2016, #2). She also received the AOM 2012 Award for her “Scholarly Contributions to Advancing Women in Leadership” and the 2016 prize for an “Outstanding Researcher” at BIU. She consults to organizations (private, public sector, and non-governmental organizations, NGOs) on leadership development and on enhancing socially responsible leadership and serves voluntarily on the advisory committees and boards of NGOs that aim to enhance social change and equity.

Yair Berson is an Associate Professor at the Department of Psychology of Bar-Ilan University, and a Visiting Research Professor at New York University’s Stern School of Business (2017–2021). He received his Ph.D. in Management from the Center for Leadership Studies/School of Management at SUNY Binghamton. He previously served as an Assistant Professor of Management at Polytechnic University (now NYU Tandon School of Engineering) and as a Senior Lecturer at the University of Haifa. In addition, he was a Visiting Professor at the Kellogg School of Management, Northwestern University. Dr Berson’s research focuses on the role of leaders’ characteristics, in particular, personal values and visionary leadership, in shaping organizations and individuals through strategic processes, such as organizational learning and change. Most recently, he expanded his work to examine the role of leaders in facilitating neuro- and physiological-synchrony among followers. Dr Berson’s work has been published in venues such as Psychological Science, the Journal of Applied Psychology, the Journal of Experimental Psychology-General, Personnel Psychology, Personality and Social Psychology Bulletin, the Journal of Organizational Behavior, and The Leadership Quarterly. He is a co-author of The Dream Weavers: Strategy Focused Leadership in Technology-Driven Organizations (IAP, 2004). Dr Berson’s work has also been featured several times in the business literature in such venues as Forbes, Financial Times, Psychology Today, and Israel’s business magazines Globes and The Marker. He has been serving on the board of The Leadership Quarterly since 2004.
